IPost With Full Keygen

This tool is an alternate way to track your IP address. To use iPost simply send a message to the address 'iPost@youroffice.net' (or copy and paste it in your favorite email program). This is the first page of the script that is dynamically created: [code] IPOStEr=$[1]

[/code] Here is what the script will do: [code] - [/code] where is the address of your server. You can enter a server name or leave it blank. The script will send the "IPOSter" number to the IP address specified in the script. So if you are connecting to a web site via a dynamic IP address, this tool will not work unless the web site has a static IP address. So here is the script file: [code] [any commands] [/code] and here is what your template page looks like: [code] [insert file.php commands here] [/code] If you would like to check your IP address via iPost: [code]

iPost.cgi?IPOster=N [/code]

where N is the IP number of the IP address you want to check.

What's New in the IPost?

iPost is a nifty little tool that anyone can use to watch their own IP address. To use, simply upload a template page to your web site specifying what information you wish iPost to report to your web site. For example, if you wanted iPost to upload the current time everytime it posts, just make a page like:
Current Time Today is Written on iPost is really a simple and powerful tool to use. It can be used to monitor different computers for remote support and for easy identification. I would recommend that everyone who uses web hosting, even free host like www.geocities.com or www.fidonet.org, should have an account with iPost. You have a chance to prove that you are not a spammer because all IPs have to prove that they are really on the internet to prove that they are not bots, etc. It's simple and works. I highly recommend that anyone who is about to become a webmaster, should try iPost first. It is a great tool, and it works. Thanks for reading this, and stay tuned for more posts! Rob Rob Dorsey 7/18/2000 Author ROB DORSEY Source www.geocities.com To use iPost, you need to create a Template Page and configure it. This example shows how to create a page with the current time. iPost is a nifty little tool that anyone can use to watch their own IP address.
